Terrible Mavoc Wrought to the Grape Crop in the Chautauqua Vineyards—Thou-sands of Acres Wiped Out So Far as This Year's Crop is Concerned.

CHICAGO, March 28. - Dispatches from the wheat growing regions of the west and northwest say that winter wheat has been badly damaged by the recent cold snap. In eastern and central Nebsaska wheat is believed to have suffered severely, but farther north and west the recent snowfall has protected the growing plants. A report from Sparts, Ill., says the crop is badly damaged, in one locality to the extent of 50 per cent.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 28.-Reports from Chautauqua county state that the cold snap has worked terrible havoe to the grape crop. Thousands of acres of vineyard are totally wiped out, so far as this season's crop is concerned. The great loss sustained will be comprehended when it is stated that over $6,000,000 of capital is invested in this industry in northern Chautauqua. The work of harvesting and preparing the fruit for market gives employment to several thousand people, and the income derived from this source is greater than that of the manufacturing industries of the entire grape belt

CLEVELAND, O., March 28.—Early fruit and vegetables have been killed in many sections of northern Ohio.

R PARKERSBURG, W. Va., March 28.-Reports from twenty-eight towns within a radius of seventy-five miles tell of the total destruction of apple, peach, plum and other fruit crops and of early vegetables. Railroad men report heavy snows in the mountains to the east.

MEMPHIS, Tepu., March 28. -One million dollars will not cover the loss to farmers in this section of the Mississippi valley from the blizzard which has been raging for two days. All kinds of fruit, vegetation and foliage has been killed, and the whole country looks as if it had been swept by a forest fire.

DALLAS, Tex., March 28 .- The thermometer was again at 28 Tuesday morning, but the north wind has ceased blowing. Reports from the fruit crop are conflicting, but it is conceded it has been terribly injured, if not almost wiped out, and will have to be replanted. Everything in garsave lettuce and onions, dens, was killed, and all fancy shade trees had their foliage frozen off. There is ample time to replant all garden and field srops.

CHARLESTON, & C., March 28-The mercury went down to 36 degrees Thursday morning, and a general freeze occurred all through the trucking district. The loss to the farmers can scarcely be estimated as yet, but it will amount to thousands of dollars. The crops most affected are peas, cucumbers, strawberries, lettuce, beans, potatoes and early cabbage.

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 28 -- Reports from this section concerning the effect of the freeze Monday and Monnight are very disheartening There has been widespread disaster to truck gardens. Total damage is estimated at $1,000,000.

COLUMBUS, O., March 28 .- L. N. Bonham, secretary of the state board of agriculture, states that the peach, pear gloves for the state championship, and cherry crop in Ohio has undoubtedly been ruined by the severe cold of this week. The apple blossoms were not far enough developed to be injured.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 28 -- Specials from the fruit and vegetable districts indicate that the cold spell has done but little damage. In the northern section of the state much damage is reported, but south of Jacksonville no harm has been done. Monday and Tuesday have been two of the coldest days of the winter in Florida.

Canada's Protective Tariff. OTTAWA, Ont., March 28 -In the Dominion house of commons Tuesday afternoon Hon. G. E. Foster, minister of finance, commenced the delivery of the budget speech at 6:35 o'clock. The house was crowded and the keenest interest manifested, as important tariff changes were expected. He defended the Canadian tariff as it had existed since 1878, quoting figures to show that the average customs rates on imported dutiable goods have never exceeded 28% per cent, whereas in other countries they had been far higher. He claimed that in Canada the protective tariff had never been burdensome to the mass of consumers or unjust to any large class.

Suicide Due to a Misunderstanding. COLUMBUS, O., March 28.-Maria Sandow, with whom Hobart Beatty was madly in love, says his suicide at Chillicothe was the result of a misunderstanding between them. She understood that they were to meet and was disappointed when on arriving from Cincinnati at 7 p. m. Monday, he did not meet her at the train. He evidently understood that she was to meet him at Chillicothe, her home, and not finding her there, killed himself in a fit of disappointment. She is prostrated.

The Kenrange Burned.

HAVANA, March 28 -The wrecking steamer Orion, which sailed from Boston to Roncador reef for the purpose of saving the stranded war skip Kearsarge, has arrived here. The Orion reached Roncador reef at 5 o'clock last Thursday morning. She found that the Kearsarge had been set on fire and that her hull was entirely broken up. The Orion's captain, satisfied that there was absolutely nothing left of the Kearsarge that was worth saving, headed his vessel for this port.

A BAD WITNESS

For the Defense in the Pollard-Breckinridge-Case.

Moore, Takes the Stand.

The Promise of Marrige in His Office Was Genuine if Ever Anything of the Kind Was-Bradley Makes an Important Ruling in Favor of the Plaintiff.

WASHINGTON, March 28.-Attorney for a quarter of an hour, and then failed to appear at the first session of called to the witness stand the chief of police, Maj. Moore, in whose office there tives, and the general commanding the had been two promises made by Col. May 13 and 17, 1893. It was proposed to contradict some of Miss Pollard's statements regarding those inter-

Maj. Moore denied that in either of the two interviews Col. Breckinridge had said, "This is one of life's tragedies," or that he had said anything about Miss Pollard bearing two children or being pregnant. In neither interview had Col. Breckinridge said, "she knew I was a married man when she took me," nor that Miss Pollard said: "Yes, I gave myself to him."

"How long did the interview last?" asked Judge Wilson in cross-examina-

"Fifteen or twenty minutes." "A great deal was said that you don't remember?"

"Yes, sir." Answering further questions the major said that he had only made notes of what impressed his mind after the interview was concluded; that Miss Pollard and Col. Breckinridge had talked all the time, Miss Pollard seeming excited and doing most of the talking, while Col. Breckinridge seemed cool. He would not pretend that he shall be through his endless beingsaid which he could not remember, as that part of the conversation be had occupied more than half a minute. His attention had not been called to the conversation for three months after-

The second interview, it was developed under cross-examination, had lasted nearly an hour, and had been less excited than the first, Miss Pollard doing most of the talking.

"This was the interview of the 17th of May, when Miss Pollard narrated that she lay on the sofa, Col. Breckinridge sat beside her, and afterward he took her hand in his and your hand and promised to marry her?" repeated Judge Wilson, aiming to emphasize an old score. "Yes, sir."

Then when Judge Wilson asked if anything had been said or seen in that interview to indicate that the promise of marriage was merely a scheme between the two parties not made in good faith, the defense was strenuous in its objections, protesting that it called for an opinion which should be the province of the jury, not of a witness.

Judge Bradley admitted it, however, and the major said nothing had been done of the sort to indicate a scheme

There was a tilt between the attorneys over the latitude which was permissible in the cross-examination, and Judge Bradley decided that since the defense had made the chief its own witness the cross-questioning could cover the whole field of the interviews. Thereupon in response to Judge Wilson's last question the witness said that Miss Pollard's manner had indicated gratification when the colonel promised to marry her.

The re-direct question from Mr. Shelby whether, if Col. Breckinridge had said that Miss Pellard bore him two children, he would have made a note of it, was overruled, as was a question as to when he first became aware that the plaintiff claimed that she had borne two children by the defendant. This ended the second appearance of Maj. Moore, after some clever questioning by both sides and several exceptions on the part of the defense.

"Maj." Hay was called, but no one recognized by that title E. B. Hav, the chief officer of the national Order of Elks, and a well known local atterney and after-dinner speaker. Hay failing to appear, Dr. E. M. Schaeffer, deputy coroner of the district of Columbia, a tall, slender, bearded, spectacled man, called as an expert upon handwriting. After stating his qualifications and his experience, Mr. Butterworth was about to hand him the letter disclaimed by Miss Pollard when Mr. Wilson coolly remarked: "Well, I don't think he is an expert at all," which stirred a laugh. Mr. Wilson proceeded to put more questions to ascertain the claims of the witness to expert knowledge. Microscopic and chemical analysis had been made a study by the doctor for seventeen years in the government medical museum. "You were examining lungs and lights and livers," repeated Judge Wilson.

"Lights are livers, Judge," remarked the witness.

Continuing he explained that he had been brought writing by various sorts of doctors, several wills among them, to detect forgeries, to determine the quality and character of the ink, and the age of the writing.

SENATE RITES

Hald Over the Remains of a Dead Member
—Tribute of Respect to the Late Senstor Colquist.

WASHINGTON, March 27.-The solemn funeral ceremonies of the late Senator Colquitt, of Georgia, were conducted in the senate chamber Tuesday morn-Washington's Chief of Police, Maj. ing. The hour fixed was 9 a. m., and promptly at that hour the vice president took the chair. Shortly before then the casket containing the remains, and leden with wreaths of flowers, had been carried into the chamber and placed on a bier in the area in front of the clerk's desk.

In a few minutes afterward the officials of the government whose pres-Butterworth, of Col. Breckinridge's ence had been invited were in their counsel, kept the circuit court waiting | seats-the members of the cabinet, the chief justice and associate justices of the supreme court, many members of court Tuesday. Finally the defense the diplomatic corps, the speaker and members of the house of representaarmy. The ladies of the family of the Breckinridge to marry Miss Pollard on dead senator, heavily draped in mourning, sat near the coffin.

The services were conducted by the Senate chaplain, Rev. Mr. Milburn, assisted by the chaplain of the house of representatives, Rev. Mr. Bagby.

The prayer was offered by Mr. Bagby, beginning with the declaration: "I am the resurrection and the life. He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."

Then the funeral address was delivered by the blind chaplain in his most affecting style.

"We are not burying him," he said; 'we are burying the external covering of the man. God's son can not be buried. His only-begotten Son entered the tomb and arose therefrom to give us token and assurance that henceforth all his servants and disciples living in his faith and in the communion of his sacraments and of his church shall receive immortality with him. The tie which bound us to our beloved friend is not severed. That bond which nature gave still lasts. Wife, children, friends, lovers, are all as dear to him at this moment-and recalled everything. Much had been as they ever were on earth; nay, dearer, sweeter."

The address was followed by benerecorded in his notes would not have diction, and with that the simple, solemn ceremonies closed.

Mr. Harris (dem., Tenn.), after consultation with the vice president, moved that the senate adjourn till Wednesday at noon. That motion was agreed to, and the senate at 9:40 adjourned.

The body of the late senator was escorted to the Pennsylvania station by a squad of capitol 'police, followed by the congressional committee which is Washington over the Richmond & Danreach Macon, Ga., Wednesday at the was at Atlanta, but almost all his family sleep in Macon, and he will be placed beside them in that city.

AT ALLIANCE.

More Recruits Join the Commonweal Army There.

The People Flocked Out to See the Strange Cavalcade Pass.

Camp Bunker Hill Was Established at the Fair Grounds-A Public Meeting Held in the Opera House-State Officials Said to Be Looking for Trouble.

ALLIANCE, O., March 28.-This point was reached by the commonweal army early Tuesday afternoon, after a march of fourteen miles over very rough and muddy roads. The third day out from Massillon was as unpleasant as any of its predecessors. Cold, cutting winds and snow flurries prevailed until dark.

Camp Peffer, at Louisville, O., was deserted at 9 o'clock by the army of peace, and with three cheers for the town mayor the column swung off on its first long tramp. Curious people gaped at the freaky procession as it passed through the country. At Maximo a short stop was made, and one mile further on the column haited for lunch. When the college settlement at Mt. Union, on the outskirts of Alliance, was reached the crowds increased and from that point to Camp Bunker Hill, at the Alliance fair grounds, people flocked to see the odd cavalcade.

Tents were raised, and the shivering, thinly clad soldiers gathered wood for fires. By the time supper rations had been distributed things were more comfortable.

Alliance is the most enthusiastic town yet reached. Many sympathizers with the movement live here, and a half carload of supplies, including hay for the stock, was donated. The street railways ran excursion cars to the camp every fifteen minutes, and as evening came on recruits began to come in. Adjt Smith had seventy-five new men on rolls Tuesday night, making the column 184 strong. The new men are somewhat better in appearance than the old ones.

A public meeting was held in the opera house of the town at 4 o'clock Commander Coxey and Chief Marshal Carlbrowe spoke to a big crowd. Another meeting was held later.

An attitude of hospitality to the correspondents accompanying the expedi tion was observed Tuesday. The soldiers claim they they have been mercilessly abused, and want revenge.

Mayor Exeel, of Alliance, appointed twelve special police officers for Tuesday night, but he anticipated no to accompany the remains to their last | trouble. It was learned, however, from resting place. The funeral party left a prominent state militia man that some insecurity is felt at the capital, ville railroad at 11 o'clock, and will the state officials fearing that the army may be set upon by disorderly elements same hour. The home of Mr. Colquitt in some of the towns to be passed through. For that reason a letter has been written to the captains of all militia companies along the route, recommending that they have men ready for muster.

Commander Coxey left Massillon at 5 o'clock, intending to go from there to Chicago to attend a sale at the Union Stock yards. He denies that the trip has anything to do with his financial difficulty, and says he will rejoin the command at Columbiana, Thursday. Regarding the suit brought against he said Tuesday morning that it was over a disputed bill, and he did not fear it.

Twenty Rounds For a Girl. OMAHA, Neb., March 28-Irving Gardner, son of Dean Gardner, of the Calpetzer sent word to Gardner that he must give up the girl or fight. Gardner chose to fight. Sunday night they met, with the necessary attendants, in the billiard room in Col. Calpetzer's residence. Twenty fierce rounds were fought, soft gloves being used. The dean's son was knocked out, but the victor was badly punished.
